

AFTERSCHOOL FOR ALL: PROJECT 2010 PARTNERS

In America today, millions of young people are alone and unsupervised in the hours after school, before parents return home from work. This situation places children and teens at risk for juvenile crime, substance abuse, teen pregnancy, and other problems. It means students are wasting precious time when they could be learning. And it leaves millions of working parents worried about their children when they should be focused on their jobs. This unproductive, untenable, and unacceptable situation would be remedied if our nation invested more fully in afterschool programs that keep kids safe, support working families, and help young people succeed in school and in life.

Individuals and organizations across this nation are coming together to advance universal access to afterschool. Partners of Afterschool for All: Project 2010 include educators, youth advocates, policy makers, faith-based leaders, parents, business leaders, police and prosecutors, and others who recognize that afterschool programs are a necessity for youth, families and communities. The strength of the effort lies in the breadth and diversity of these partners. Project 2010 partners agree that all children and youth should have access to quality, safe and enriching afterschool programs by the year 2010. These include:
