DOUG AMMAR
Executive Director

Georgia Justice Project

Douglas B. Ammar has been with the Georgia Justice Project (GJP) since its inception in 1986, first as a volunteer, then lawyer and now it's Executive Director, since 1995. The GJP envisions a world where a criminal history does not stand in the way of a stable life. With 26 years of experience, GJP has developed a comprehensive suite of services, coupling holistic legal defense and social services with advocacy support to address the barriers to economic stability faced by the criminally accused.

Ammar has received numerous awards including the prestigious Annie E. Casey Foundation Fellowship and most recently the Elbert P. Tuttle Jurisprudence Award from the Southeastern Anti-Defamation League. He is a popular and effective speaker, giving talks that range from a CLE based on the movie "Groundhog Day" to powerful presentations about restorative justice and spirituality in the practice of law. Some of his speaking engagements include: the Restorative Justice Conference, Ministry of Justice Israel; the Focolare Lawyers Conference in Rome, Italy; Meiji University, Tokyo; the Southeastern Council of Foundations Annual Meeting, the Christian Legal Society's Annual Meeting; the Stein Center for Ethics at Fordham University Law School in New York; and the Georgia Public Defenders Standards Council.

Ammar earned his Bachelor's degree in history from Davidson College and his law degree from Washington and Lee University.
