LARRY GELLERSTEDT, CEO
Cousins Properties

“Update on Cousins Properties and Atlanta Real Estate”

In June 2009, Larry Gellerstedt was named President and CEO of Cousins Properties. He previously served as the Company's President and Chief Operating Officer, overseeing Cousins' leasing and asset management efforts as well as its development initiatives. He joined Cousins in 2005 following the acquisition of his firm, The Gellerstedt Group.

Larry began his career at Beers Construction Company as an estimator and project manager and eventually became Chairman and Chief Executive Officer where he led the company to annual revenues in excess of $1.2 billion, and sold to Skanska AB. He also has held positions as President and Chief Operating Officer of The Integral Group, recognized nationally for its visionary urban mixed-use development, and as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of American Business Products, a NYSE-listed manufacturer of packaging and printed office products.

Spanning a career of more than 30 years, Larry has received numerous accolades including Ernst and Young's Entrepreneur of the Year and Atlanta Business League's CEO of the Year, and Georgia Trend magazine's Georgia's 100 Most Influential People. He currently serves in various leadership positions on numerous boards of civic and community organizations. Gellerstedt graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.
