2016 NCTE ANNUAL CONVENTION

Join us for the 2016 NCTE
Annual Convention in Atlanta!

I wish every single teacher could attend the National Council of Teachers of English Annual Convention.

I am a better educator and a passionate advocate FOR teachers because of my experiences at the NCTE Convention over more than 20 years.

The people you meet, the strategies you learn, the passion you encounter—it's all unlike any other professional learning experience out there. You walk away with your bags bursting with books from more than 120 exhibitors and your mind bursting with ideas from more than 6,000 brilliant educators, PreK-college, who hail from across the country and around the globe.

This year we're planning a Convention that will offer all the relevant and inspiring instructional ideas and resources NCTE's event is known for. But we're also planning a wealth of learning experiences that focus on the role educators play as advocates.

As teachers, we are the ones who know our students, our content, and our instructional needs best. Whether we're seeking diverse books, piloting a new approach, building community connections, or searching for ways to transform detrimental policies—our role as teachers often requires us to take action, and this Convention is all about how.

I hope you'll join us in Atlanta this November. You're likely to leave with a new way of teaching writing or a new way of writing for change—or both! One thing I guarantee: you'll leave renewed, energized by a community of educators like no other, in a city steeped in a long history of working for change.

Join us in Atlanta this November! The people you meet, the strategies you learn, the passion you encounter—it's all unlike any other professional learning experience out there!

▶ WONDERING WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU AND YOUR COLLEAGUES?

AT NCTE'S 2016 Annual Convention you will have myriad opportunities to . . .

CONNECT with educators, administrators, and researchers from across the country and around the world to discuss mutual interests, concerns, and experiences.

SHARE ideas, strategies, and successes as you expand your own professional learning community.

EXAMINE ways to advance student learning by gathering solid educational theories, models, and ideas that you can take back to your school.

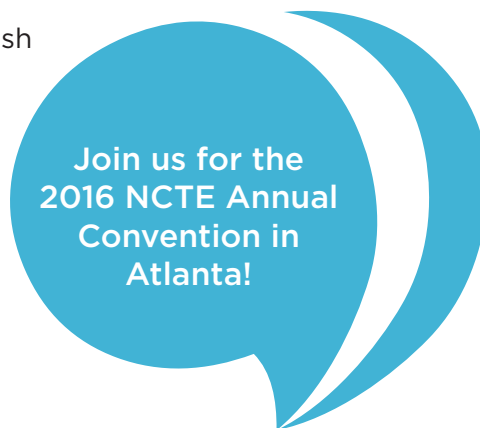

INTERACT with well-known authors, illustrators, and educators on topics important to your teaching.

INVESTIGATE a single topic in depth by attending a preconvention workshop.

DISCOVER the latest publications, products, and services for English language arts education in the Exhibit Hall.

SYNTHESIZE the information you've gathered.

SPEAK UP about issues affecting your school, your students, and your colleagues, using the knowledge and tools you've gained at the NCTE 2016 Annual Convention.
