The Bellevue Hotel COVID Vaccination Policy

Starting January 17th, Philadelphia's new city-wide vaccination mandate will go into full effect. Under the new rules, to eat indoors at any Philadelphia restaurant or business that serves food or to attend an event at a city venue such as The Bellevue Hotel, attendees and vendors must show photo ID and proof of vaccination. Hotel staff will be checking proof of vaccination status and ID's at the door/entrance at each event. Masks will not be required in the meeting space or vendor area, but are still required in all other public spaces of the hotel. The Bellevue Hotel is fine tuning exactly what their processes look like in regards to checking vaccine cards, etc. and PDAA staff will work with them to make it as smooth as possible. Certain people who cannot be vaccinated are exempted from this requirement are; children under five years and three months of age, people with signed medical exemptions from a licensed practitioner, people with religious exemptions, who have attested in writing that they have a sincerely held religious belief that prevents them from being vaccinated.
